

Balgone Heughs

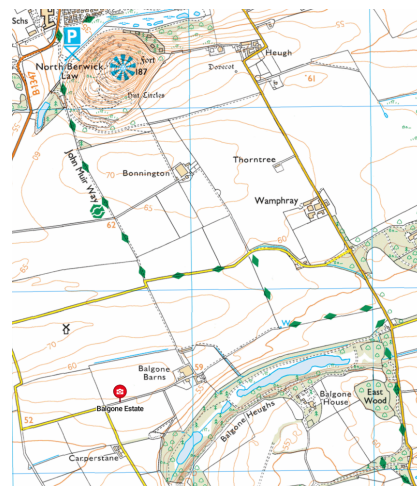

Crag features

Sports crag set along a 10-20m high series of crags. North facing, mostly in woods, so fairly sheltered from the wind but not much sun.

Originally developed in about 2014, but there are far more routes now (2025) and most of the original bolts have been replaced.

Approach notes

Do not leave cars on the Balgone Barns access road – this will jeopardise access.

- Originally access was from the fairly large North Berwick Law car park at: 56.0489, -2.7190 google maps
- Parking is also available at: 56.039583, -2.694091 google maps (this is the 'large parking area' marked in the map above left)
The walk from here is about 15 minutes.
 - ▶ Walk SE on the road for about 600m then along the field boundaries for about 1.1km.
 - ▶ Turn W off the John Muir Way and follow the sign post for Balgone Lakes.
 - ▶ After 200m turn left to follow the path along the south side of the lake.
 - ▶ The crag is at the western end of the lake, facing north.
- Feb 2025 update: there is now additional parking available at 'The Herd Cafe' at Balgone Barns: 56.0330, -2.7099 google maps
30th July 2025 update: For the time being, please do not park at 'The Herd Cafe'. The farmer has requested that climbers revert to parking at the above location. This is due to the 'Sunflower Event' which is about to begin at the farm. Normal service should be resumed after 2nd September.

Routes

The crag is described in the current SMC Lowland Outcrops guide. However, there are many more routes than in that guide.

These are listed on the UKC page for Balgone Heughs, but combining the SMC guide with the UKC list makes it much easier to identify the routes than just having the list alone – buy the guide!
